By Bert van den Brink, David Owen : Recognition and Power: Axel Honneth and the Tradition of Critical Social Theory struggles for recognition are struggles for policies and institutions that foster equal rights social esteem and love according to honneth these three principles social ontology and social critique constructs a theory of critical social ontology as a means to diagnose the existence and nature of social pathologies in Recognition and Power: Axel Honneth and the Tradition of Critical Social Theory:

The topic of recognition has come to occupy a central place in contemporary debates in social and political theory. Rooted in Hegel's work developed by George Herbert Mead and Charles Taylor, it has been given renewed expression in the recent program for Critical Theory developed by Axel Honneth in his book The Struggle for Recognition. Honneth's research program offers an empirically insightful way of reflecting on emancipatory struggles for greater justice and a power. About the Author Bert van den Brink is Associate Professor of Political and Social Philosophy at Utrecht University, The Netherlands. He is the author of The Tragedy of Liberalism, co-editor of Reasons of One's Own, and author of many articles and book chapters.
