Post Orientalism is a sustained record of Hamid Dabashi's reflections over many years on the question of authority and power. Who gets to represent whom and by what authority? Dabashi's work picks up where Edward Said's Orientalism left off. Said traced the origin of the power of representation and the normative agency that it entails to the colonial hubris that carried a militant band of mercenary merchants, military officers, Christian missionaries. Dabashi has written an interesting book that sociologists of culture would find useful. Dabashi's volume is a solid guide and since the United States and Europe are clearly going to be studying and interacting with Muslim cultures for
