international socialism Reification: or The Anxiety of Late Capitalism:

Of all the concepts which have emerged to describe the effects of capitalism on the human world none is more graphic or easily grasped than "reification" — the process by which men and women are turned into objects things. Arising out of Marx's account of commodity fetishism the concept of reification offers an unrivalled tool with which to explain the real consequences of the power of capital on consciousness itself. Symptoms of reification. "One of the paradoxes of today's capitalism is that although we are dealing less and less with things and more and more with virtual fluid entities reification is stronger than ever. Which is why Bewes's book is needed like daily bread. The
